

MORNING APPEAL.

SUNDAY.....NOVEMBER 11, 1877

OPHIR was up again yesterday. Touched fifty on the street. This rise, and the fall of Friday reminds us of a circumstance which occurred in a Sunday school in Virginia at the time of the break in Ophir some years ago. The teacher was telling the boys the parable of the talents, expatiated on the foresight and business tact of the gentlemen who had ten and five and put them out to the exchangers and doubled their money, and deprecated the action of the mean selfish gentleman who went back on the whole business by hiding his away until the time came to settle. "Now boys," said he, "wasn't he an ungrateful man, after his lord had given him the money to use, to go and wrap it up in a napkin and not do anything with it at all, but only call his master names. Can you imagine anything worse that he could have done than that?" One hand went up quickly, and the answer came at the same moment, "Yes sir, he might have put it in Ophir and lost it!" It was not the same boy who, after hearing the superintendent talk about Providence, asked another boy, "Do you believe all that?" "Yes." "What! that God made all those mountains, and all this town?" "Yes." "And all these mines on the Comstock?" "Yes." "And all of them down at Gold Hill?" "Yes." "Well I guess John P. Jones had something to say about that!" Such was the skeptical tendency of the youth of the sagebrush. What shall we do with our boys?

A DIFFICULTY, not of the greatest dimensions occurred yesterday between a couple of native Americans of slightly different shades of opinion, concerning a lobster. We didn't get at the facts of the case, but it was something about the native American lobster getting away with the native American, which the other native didn't seem to like, and upon which subject the lobster, or the other one, differed, we could not tell which. At all events a son of the Emerald or some other foreign isle, chipped in and not understanding the subject nor the principles of foreign intervention, got the thing wrong, made too much noise, was nabbed by Butts and dropped into jail. There was no interference on the part of the Slavonian who claimed to be the owner of the lobster.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.—The Corbett Brothers at the Arlington House have been very much annoyed of late by the unexpected and unavoidable absence of a considerable quantity of their coal. They keep it in the back yard in close proximity to the street. Yesterday morning Dan, happened to cast his eagle eye on a son of Confucius, fleeing as a bird toward Chinatown with a sack of coal on his shoulders. He immediately gave chase. The Chinaman skipped like a gay gazelle, but Dan's grabbed upon him. The race was short. In about two blocks the coal stopped and the Chinaman went on. Dan kept right on, captured the Chinaman, and instead of taking him to jail administered several lusty and well directed kicks in his rear vicinity and triumphantly brought the coal back.

MORE FREIGHT.—Two more wagons each with back actions, heavily loaded with merchandise, started out southward yesterday morning. One drawn by twelve mules was consigned to Benton and the other drawn by eight, each mule bearing a string of bells, was going to Bodie with more freight for Gillson & Barber. We also noticed on the street an eight ox team drawing a two wheeled sort of a concern. We at first thought it was a caisson but closer inspection led us to decide that it was a Russian telya, going to the front, one of those things which Jules Verne defines as a thing with four wheels when it starts and two when it arrives.

SUNDAY READING, as the constant reader is aware, is a regular department in the MORNING APPEAL. To-day we take a new departure; Sunday dinners are proverbially good. Look at the advertisement under New To-day and read what Mamony says concerning the dinner bill of fare at Frisbie's Restaurant, which he proposes publishing every Sunday, and you can see just what you will get in soups, fish, boils, roasts, entrees, vegetables, puddings and pies and things, for 50 cents. Cooking exquisite, attendance prompt, and everything clean and nice.

GIRLS BRASS BAND.—The concert given last evening by the girls band was in every way a success. The selections were good and they played in excellent time. There was a large and appreciative audience present who testified their approval by frequent applause. After the concert the company present, performers and friends joined in the merry whirl of the giddy walk, and acted as if they were having a grand good time.

DEPARTING.—Quite a number of our visitors who have been in attendance upon the Courts, and probably weary of the monotony of our streets, have "folded up their tents like Arabs, and quietly stolen away" to Virginia, Gold Hill and other wicked cities of sin, to while away the sacred Sunday hours, amid scenes less solemn and decorous than those of our proper and always exemplary city.

Mrs. P. W. Stephens will lecture in the Court House this evening at half past seven o'clock. Subject will be announced at hour of lecture.

THE COURTS.—In the Supreme Court yesterday the argument in the Rover case was continued and the case submitted on briefs to be filed.

In the U. S. Circuit Court the case of Wilson, vs. Dayton Mill & Mining Co. was given to the jury. Late last evening the jury was out, with no prospect of agreement. The cases of the C. P. R. Co. vs. Orr, et al. were argued and the Court gave judgment for the plaintiff.

In the District Court it was motion day, and the members of the bar went through their usual movements. In addition to the business of the Court Henry Fowler, who pleaded guilty to two indictments, viz house-breaking and burglary, was sentenced to one year in the State Prison on each indictment. He was furnished free transportation to the Warm Springs, where he will languish for two short years.

No business was transacted in the Justice Court yesterday.

A SMALL FIRE.—Yesterday morning just as the passenger train was coming in, and while Dr. Sauer was peacefully putting away his usual morning nourishment, he was startled by a loud rapping at his door and the unwelcome announcement that his house was on fire. The brakeman from the train had noticed it as he came in, jumped off and gave the warning. Upon going to the back part of the house they discovered that the kitchen roof was in flames. It had caught from the pipe and burned through the lath and plastering. By an immediate application of the precious fluid it was soon extinguished. If it had not been for the promptness and activity of the brakeman much damage might have been done. The Doctor desires us to express his thanks; he says the man not only gave the warning but rushed upon the roof and was instrumental in putting the fire out.

THE ALLEGED WHISKY AND WINE AT WILLIS' CORNER was very thinly attended. Brother Corncock worked hard and valiantly to get rid of the wretched stuff but buyers were slow. The tamada juke and sleep-herder's delight went off at ruinously low figures. When whisky can't be sold under the hammer at any price, it is pretty strong evidence that money must be very tight, which we believe it is. There were any number of tasters who attended closely to business.

NO GR.—Charles F. Fienke's electrical machine must be out of order. The clock which hangs in front of his store has stood at 3:15 for several days. It is amusing to see the passers by look up with an information-seeking expression, and then down again with a look far from a satisfied air. We trust the wires will get to working soon, for all the tramps and business men and lawyers and strangers depend upon that clock. It ought to go.

IN TOWN.—J. W. Haines and Ben. Edison of Genoa visited the Capital yesterday. Ben. Leete of Reno also appeared upon the scene. W. H. Varden of the Gold Hill News was in the city yesterday. Col. Bob Taylor arrived last evening by the passenger train. He stops over; didn't say where he was going to preach but he will certainly go to church. He is one of the greatest church goers in the country.

M. E. CECIL.—J. D. Hammond, Pastor Services to-day at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M. Sabbath school at 2 P. M. Seats free, and all are welcome. Subjects of discourse: Morning, "Yokes and Yoke Bearers," evening, "Hiding Places."

The jury in the Wilson case have agreed that Mamony is a good place to eat. We saw them there about nine last evening and they were doing ample justice to the rich, tempting viands set before them.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH.—Services as usual, this morning and evening. Rev. William R. Jenney, of Virginia City, will officiate at both services. Sunday school immediately after the morning service.

REWARD.—Yerington Bliss & Co. in another column offer a liberal reward for the detection of the parties who fired their wood. Now is the time for some one to make a pile easily.

BULLION.—Wells, Fargo & Co. received per southern stage 3 bars of bullion from Columbus valued at $3,244 67.

Services in the Presbyterian Church to-day at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M. Sabbath school at 12:15. All are invited.
